Dear Friend,

I received Frankie's letter to-night, with a copy of Pres. Lincoln's letter in reply to yours reminding him of his neglect.

I thank you sincerely and heartily for your great kindness! I feel indeed that I ought never to have troubled you at all in the affair, you, whose hands and heart are ever over-full of work and thought for other good.

Frank tells me that you will be so kind as to publish the letter in the Liberator. I thank you very much. I suppose it will then be right for me to get it copied into some daily paper? I hope to see you in a few days.

Accept my grateful thanks for your kindness & trouble in this matter, also my own profound respect and esteem for yourself and my hearty approval of your present position, which in my humble judgment is the same which you have maintained since you first entered upon this warfare, unswerving fidelity to my freedom ~~for~~ all.

Very truly your Obliged friend
